RUSH

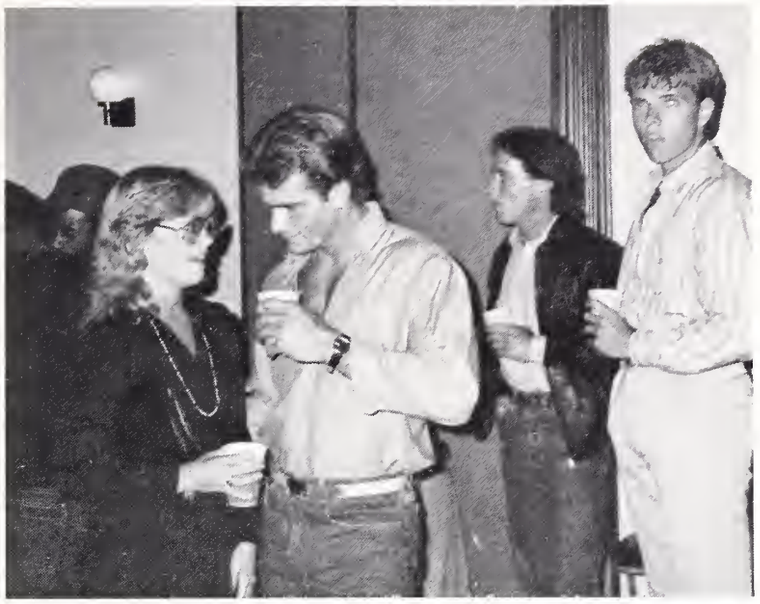

October 3, 1984 marked the date of Coastal Carolina's Activity Day. During this time the various clubs are given a splendid opportunity to introduce themselves to the students here at Coastal. Each club is allowed to set up a table or booth in order to provide information on their membership requirements and the activities that they sponsor and participate in. For example, the Society of the Undersea World (SUW) set up a table displaying certain scuba equipment that their club uses. Students were able to mingle among themselves, enjoy free hotdogs and Cokes, and sign up for the clubs that they were interested in. Thanks to Activities Day students are able to become better acquainted with the extracurricular activities here at Coastal!

Students mingle and discuss the upcoming school semester.

Deciding whether or not to dance can sometimes be a difficult decision.

Mix It Up

The Campus Union started the Fall 1984 semester off in style by sponsoring a "Welcome Back" dance for all students and faculty here at Coastal Carolina. They provided fifty-cent draft and wine, along with other refreshments. The feature entertainment was "Dance Limited," who provided a wide variety of music for everyone to enjoy. After a brief time and with some encouragement from the D.J., couples gradually made their way to the dance floor. As the sounds of "Dance Limited" filled the ballroom of the Landmark, everyone seemed to forget all but the moment. Certainly, the Welcome Back Dance proved to be quite a success!

Show Some Style

The Coastal Carolina Art Department, along with The Lilly Pond, Step 'N Style, Mi Lady and Formal Wear held a fashion show at 2001 to raise money for the school's club.

Many of Coastal's students participated, and it was thought to be a big success. Coastal student and director Joey McColluch worked diligently with the art students as well as the volunteer models to get the show off the ground.

Neon Fashions, the baggy look as well as some breathtaking formal wear were featured. The stores were generous to provide door prizes and entertainment.

It was a night to remember and thanks to the great art department the show was a big success.

Editha Beck and Steve Lawson show off Lilly Pond and Step 'N Style fashions.

Robin shows off more than this impressive tuxedo from Formal Wear!

Michael Duke embraces Renee Meyers who is wearing the newest in stirrup pants from the Lilly Pond.

Christmas Festivities

The music provided by "Inn-O-Vation" kept the partygoers merry.

Situated just off of Ocean Boulevard, the Landmark Hotel vibrated with the rocking beat of popular music on December 7, 1984. As couples entered the dimly-lit hall, the sounds of "Inn-O-Vation" magically put them in the dancing mood.

The Campus Union used their talents to transform the hotel ballroom into a glamorous setting for the annual Christmas dance. Free beer, wine, and hors d'oevers were served to keep the spirits high. As the activities came to a halt around 1 a.m., the students departing all agreed that the evening had been a great success!

Campus Union members carefully checked student I.D.'s before admitting them.

These students catch up on the latest gossip during the band's intermission.

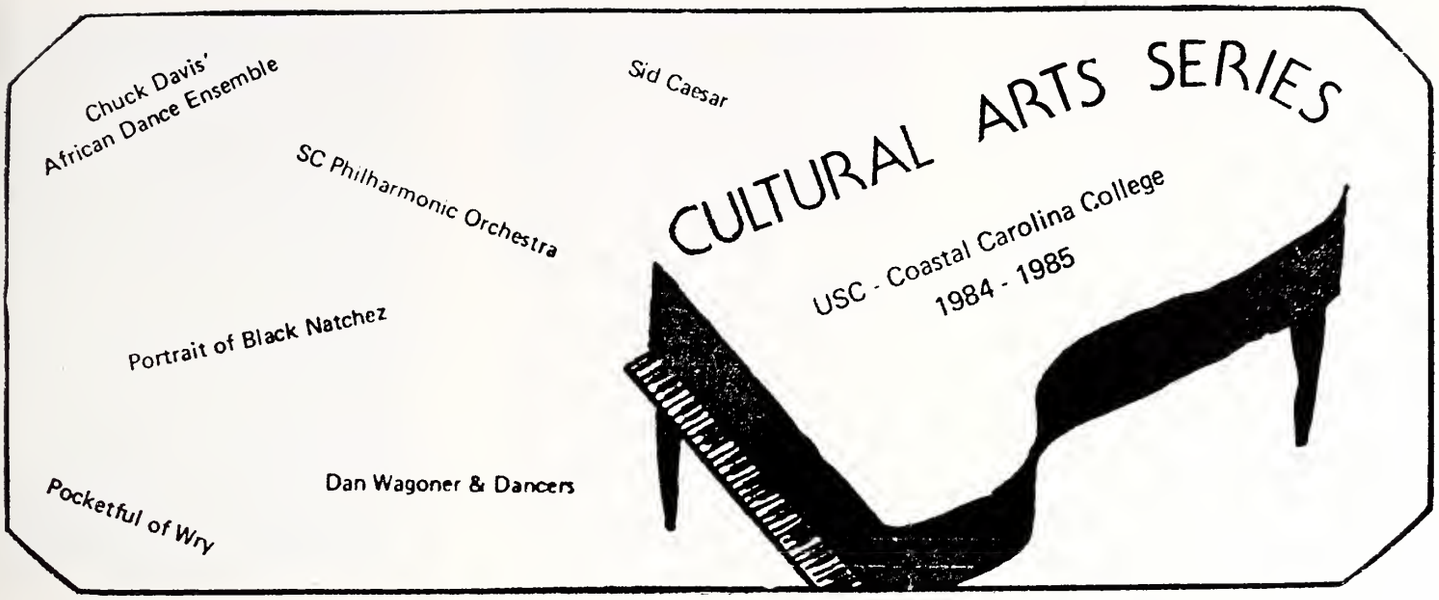

Sid Ceasar, a legend in the world of comedy, presented a special lecture at USC-Coastal Carolina on October 16, 1984. He discussed his television program, "The Show of Shows," as well as the basics of comedy. He also gave a performance of a few of his most famous routines.

The South Carolina Philharmonic Orchestra performed at the Wheelwright Auditorium on November 27, 1984. Eina Anderson, a graduate of both Stanford and Harvard conducted the orchestra. Robert Pruzin, a faculty member at USC-Columbia, was the featured soloist.

On Valentine's Day, USC-Coastal presented some of North Carolina's most gifted dancers and musicians. Chuck Davis used his N.C. heritage and much experience with African, Caribbean, and American dance to create this exciting troupe.

Dan Wagoner and Dancers performed at USC-Coastal Carolina March 7, 1985. Wagoner likes to contradict music; he creates both feelings of tension and humor. Their form of dancing has given Dan Wagoner and Dancers the opportunity to appear all over the world. They are a universal talent.

Jay Thompson's "Pocketful of Wry," a musical revue consisting of sixteen to twenty songs and dances performed by light players, was presented on March 19, 1985. The songs in "Pocketful of Wry" are everything from bright sophistication to unabashed sentimentallity. The overall effect was delightfully satisfying.

"Portrait of Black Natchez," a series of photographs taken by Henry Norman, was displayed from March 22, 1985 to April 20, 1985 in the Student Center and in Kimball Library. These photographs tell of a large community of free blacks before the Civil War and after.

Spare Time

It is 1:00 pm; The Student Center T.V. Room is filled with students and faculty. What are they doing? Watching soaps, of course; others are next door shooting pool and playing video games; some just sit and talk; and a small number try to study. These are only a few of the many ways USC-Coastal students spend their spare time. Others enjoy participating in intramurals, attending club meetings and athletic events, and eating the "new" food in the cafeteria.

After a grueling day in math class, good food revives and prepares one for the next class.

An aerobics class encouraged many students to shape-up during their spare time.

O.K., what's the latest gossip being spread on the Student Center front steps???

Putting on the Hits

The latest craze that seems to be sweeping the nation is popularly referred to as "Lip Sync." More accurately, lip sync is the process in which a person sings along synchronically with a recording. In keeping with the times, Campus Union presented its very own lip sync contest. Sheila Clardy, Gwen Vereen, and Roberta Ziegler walker away $300 richer after winning 1st place; Ebbie Gore took 2nd place and $200 with "Don't Stand Another Chance" by Janet Jackson; Michael Jackson's "Beat It" brought $100 to Stilin Woodberry as she captured 3rd place.

With his wild antics, attire, and hilarious jokes, Steve Hudson kept the action moving as emcee.

Defying the norm, Greg Tyler and David Majewski present their video version of "Pavarotti."

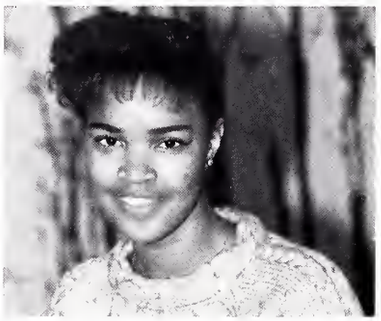

Sheila Clardy and Roberta Ziegler reminisce of earlier days with their rendition of "Do Wah Diddy."

"Modern Love" took on a new meaning when portrayed by Andreas VeDung, Declan Cunningham and Ron Porkorny.

Deadline Blues

In the summer of 1984 the 1984-85 Atheneum was just an idea; yet members of the staff were already anxiously anticipating the final completion. The actual work began soon afterwards: ads had to be sold and more plans had to be made. The staff spent many days walking up and down the streets of Conway and Myrtle Beach, visiting stores and businesses to sell ads. The tempo soon quickened around the Atheneum office as photographs, layouts, copy, captions, and headlines were needed for each page. Each staff member was responsible for various sections in the book. As deadlines were slowly met, the Atheneum began to take shape.

After the final deadline, the waiting began. The staff was filled with apprehension and hope.

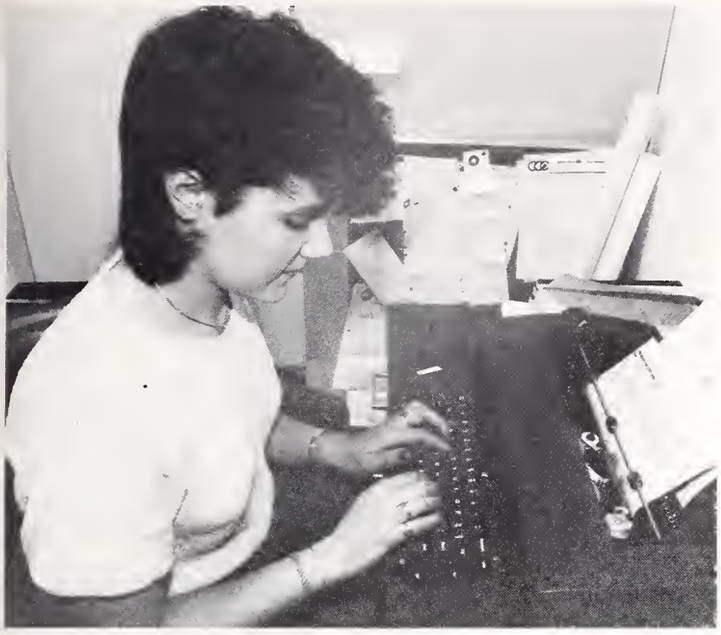

Finally the completed edition arrived. The goal had been attained!

Editor, Melissa Blakley carefully proofreads copy and captions for the 1984-85 Atheneum.

During registration, Steve Neeves and Whitney Shaindlin diligently sell yearbooks to all interested students.

Typing copy on quad-packs is just one of Paula Richardson's duties.

Identifying pictures is sometimes a long and tedious process for the staff.

Black Culture

The Afro-American Society is student minority group that is presently attempting to reestablish itself at Coastal. The purpose of the organization is to provide cultural enrichment, education, and overall information about minority relations. Presently, the group is trying to establish a Big Brother-Big Sister organization, tutorial services, and sponsor various cultural events here at Coastal Carolina. Afro-Am. expects much growth in their future.

William Canty gives Christine Laws a helping hand up the steps.

First in Service

Alphi Phi Omega is a national service fraternity dedicated to serving the community, campus, nation and the members themselves. As a coed fraternity, APO allows all of its interested members the right to office and, of course, all the rights and benefits to the chapter.

The APO Chapter here at Coastal has, in the past, accomplished many goals: fund-raising for charity, Fall and Spring blood drives. APO also participates in many co-sponsored activities and the Special Olympics, along with other aids to the Handicapped. Along with these goals, Alpha Phi Omega's chief concern is to promote leadership, friendship and service.

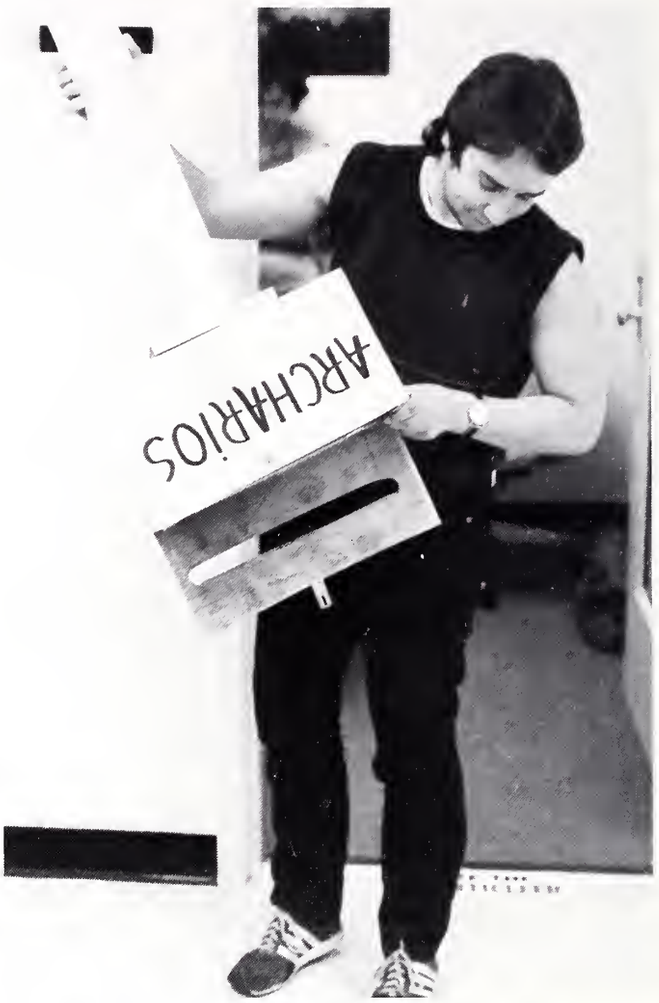

During Activity Day, these fraternity members try to round-up new recruits.

A.P.O.'s blood drive for the Red Cross proved to be a tremendous success.

Works of Art

The Archarios is our campus outlet for creative and artistic students. They elicit contributions of poetry, prose, art, and photography from people on campus and then select what they estimate to be the superior items and include them in the magazine published in the spring. The staff receives a broad spectrum of types of literary entries, so they always have a large variety to choose from; and their choices always produce a magazine of excellence and quality.

Roy Whetnall searches desperately for contributions to The Archarios.

The World of Business

The Business Club is a very active group. They sponsor a great number of activities on campus. Each semester they put together a Student-Faculty Mixer, and once a month they have business leaders in the surrounding communities speak at their meetings. They also sponsor the Valentine's Rose sale, bake sales, pizza parties and a Spring Banquet. Besides their activities on campus, they are involved in the community. They are active with the Horry County Big Brother Big Sister Program.

Students Working for Students

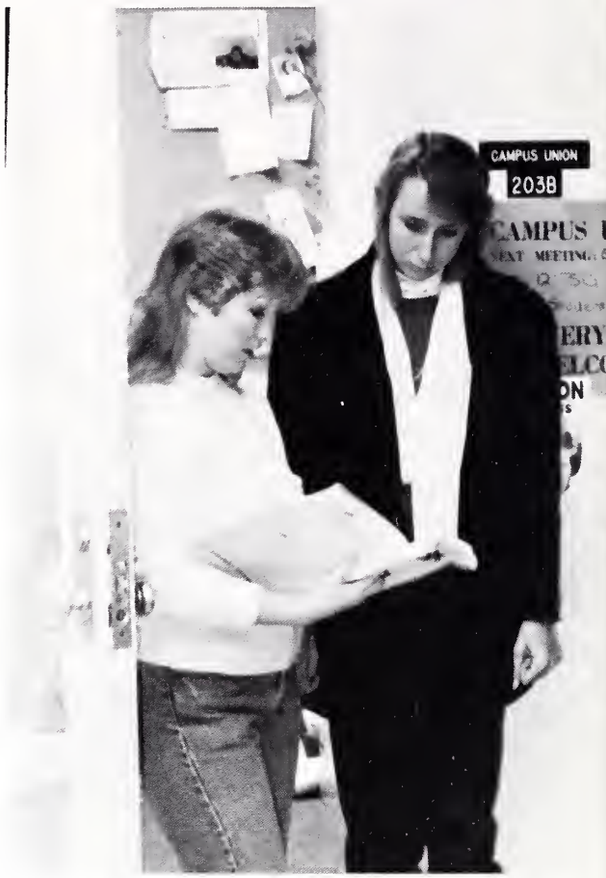

Campus Union often goes unrecognized, but without this energetic group Coastal would be "funless."

Among other things, Campus Union has provided us with some great parties; the Welcome Back dance, Halloween Party, Student Mixer, Christmas Dance, Lip Sync Contest, Homecoming Dance and the unforgettable CINO Day.

Thanks to Coastal's Campus Union our year has been filled with a lot of unforgettable memories and loads of good times!

These were just a few of the "characters" who showed up at Campus Union's Halloween Party at the Student Center.

Hot Off the Press

The Chanticleer, Coastal's new and improved newspaper, has proven to be quite informative this year. The articles are of interest to all; academics, sports events, and many other extracurricular activities are covered in each issue. The Chanticleer also informs students and faculty of upcoming events. The newspaper was established in 1962, and was printed every other week; it is now a weekly publication.

Weekend Conferences proved to be both educational and entertaining.

1984-85 Ensemble

The Coastal Carolina Concert Choir is one of the busiest organizations on campus. They have performed at many churches along the Grand Strand, and at many special events. They performed at Myrtle Square Mall during Christmas and again during Can-Am Days. In addition to those performances, they put on two major musicals: "Once Upon A Mattress" and "H.M.S. Pinafore." The Ensemble participates in all of these activities, but also performs at many civic functions.

Christian Athletes

By merely reading the name of this group, one reads specialization. However, confirmed Christinity nor athletic ability are membership requirements. Coaches, players, and other faculty and students meet at least once a month for a bible study. They also get together to play volleyball or basketball or to listen to special guests who have been invited.

If such issues as abortion, capital punishment, and E.R.A. interest you, join the History Club! Each month, this group gathers at Professor Roy Talberts home for dinner and stimulating conversation. In addition to these monthly meetings, the History Club sponsors weekly coffee hours on Tuesdays from 9:30 until 10:30. While this organization seems to attract mostly history majors and professors, all students are encouraged to attend and enjoy good, scholarly debate and discussion.

Another World

The International Club has been in existence since 1974 on the Coastal campus. From a handful of members, it has grown to nearly forty participants in 1984. The majority of members are not of international origins, but have an interest in getting to know the international students on campus. Each spring the club helps out at CINO day and participates in the Spring Art Gala by featuring exotic Middle Eastern belly dancers and international foods. The IC has become more than a club; it is a group of friends helping each other and working together.

Honorable Mention

O.D.K. meets often to discuss business and make plans.

Each fall and spring, O.D.K., inducts selected members.

Omicron Delta Kappa, a National Leadership Honor Society, was founded Dec. 3, 1914 at Washington and Lee University in Virginia. In the tradition of the idealism and leadership of George Washington and Robert E. Lee, the founders formulated the idea that leadership of exceptional quality and versatility in college should be recognized and should cooperate in worthwhile endeavor on a basis of mutual interest, understanding, and helpfulness. Special functions and activities of O.D.K. include an installation luncheon each semester, honoring of an underclass leader, service as ushers at Honors Convocation and Commencement. The group also sponsors and co-sponsors speakers, seminars, and conferences within the college and surrounding community in behalf of leadership education.

In the Beginning

The Origen Club is a source of outreach and information on theological perspective in today's society. Their goal is to educate people in order for them to have correct information and allow them to maintain a scholarly outlook toward theology. Toward this end they have two meetings per week to discuss issues. In the fall they have a Day of Christian fellowship where they have guest speakers, often scholars from this and other campuses, and have a paper presented.

Working with limited props, Upstage Co. often improvises on scenery.

Upstage Company, Coastal's drama club, was formed to organize and cordinate the efforts of students and faculty who are interested in working in the theater. Upstage Co. serves as a support group for all theater events; they also perform. They sponsor trips to experience theatre on other campuses, such as the College of Charleston. Upstage Co. members participated in regional (Atlanta) and National (Tampa, Fla.) workshops and conventions. "The Diary of Adam and Eve," was performed by Upstage for the Spring Arts Festival, as well as other one act plays; they also sponsored Improvisational Workshops.

Upstage Co. all gather around "the bird," whom they imitate.

Psyc'd Out

The Psychology Club was established to encourage, stimulate, and enhance the educational experience of the individual members in all fields, particularly psychology. These goals become a reality through such projects as stress management seminars, service trips, and tutoring services. The club also sponsored various bake sales and recruitment parties throughout the year.

During the fall semester, the Psychology Club members held parties to enlist new members.

Good food and interesting conversation seems to keep these members happy.

1984-85 Brothers

Sigma Phi Epsilon became the first national social fraternity chartered at Coastal Carolina College; efforts culminated with installation on November 10, 1979.

From the time of colonization, the Sig Ep's have made their mark on campus. They have established themselves as being the most active group on campus.

Some of Sig Ep's activities this year include their annual camp-out, oyster roasts, a Halloween party, a road trip to Columbia and to the Francis Marion Sig Ep house, a pre-game bonfire, a chili dinner and mixer, and their traditional Homecoming parade and party.

The purpose of Sigma Phi Epsilon is to help young men develop their characters through the brotherhood of the fraternity, and to help bring out the stronger qualities these young men possess.

The Sig Ep's led the Homecoming Parade with the Stroh's beer can car and the chapter flag.

Snow Wanted

When the ski club decided to take a trip, they obviously weren't expecting what happened! The trip seemed doomed from the start due to lack of snow, but just before the big day the weather changed. The destination was Snow Shoe, West Virginia. It became very obvious that CCC was near the beach and not near any slopes! The old phrase "break a leg" didn't help Martha much — she did just that on her very first day. Other than that, the trip was a great success!

The Society of the Undersea World (S.U.W.) was formed in the spring of 1975 at C.C.C. The purpose of the club is to encourage an overall appreciation of the marine environment. As the popularity of scuba diving has increased in recent years, the club's interests and activities have become centered more and more around diving. The membership now consists almost entirely of scuba divers. S.U.W. is presently the only university scuba club to belong to D.A.N. (Divers Alert Network), a non-profit organization dedicated to diving safety. S.U.W. annually supports D.A.N. by donating a part of all its proceeds raised throughout the year. Yearly events include lectures and films on diving and marine science, trips to local marine science facilities, dive trips to local sites, and many more funfilled activities.

Coastal's modern day philosophers rest on the Philosopher's Rock, which is supposed to be a place where one sits and thinks.

The Socratic Club is one of Coastal's oldest clubs. This group is made up of people who enjoy getting together for fellowship and philosophic reflection. They gather each month for this purpose and often host speakers who discuss the place that philosophy should take in one's life. At every meeting the next month's meting topic is announced so that members may research and prepare for discussion.

The unexamined life is not worth living.

— Socrates

Young Politicians

The South Carolina State Student Legislature is a group of outstanding men and women from the student bodies of all the public and private colleges and universities in the State. In the fall, they go to the State capital where legislation is passed to be forwarded to the S.C. General Assembly and introduced for consideration. Frequently their suggestions pass through both houses and are signed into law. All in all, S.C.S.S.L. is a prime training ground for our State's future leadership.

Foreign Business

Several members of the International Marketing class experimented with German Cuisine on a recent trip.

The International Marketing class is one of the most interesting classes offered at Coastal. They study the cultural aspects of international marketing, including the langauge religion, laws, politics, education, and values of various countries to better understand why different products succeed in different areas of the world. Speakers representing many different countries and companies have come to speak to these classes about their respective businesses. Students taking this class all agree that they feel better prepared to face the world of business after taking International Marketing.

S.N.A.

The Student Nurses Association, active at Coastal for the past 11 years, has participated in many health fairs, blood pressure screenings, seminars on health care problems, and has assisted with blood drives here at Coastal. The purpose of SNA is to help upgrade the basic medical/health care of Coastal's students, Horry County citizens, and the people of South Carolina. SNA's major goal for this year is to work with SCSNA, The League of Nurses, and other medical professionals to screen for hypertension.

The Voice of the Student Body

The primary purpose of S.G.A. is to look after the interests of the students and campus issues. The majority of their time is spent solving student problems and engaging in debate, discussion, and resolution over important aspects of our campus life. In the past year, many hours have been devoted to the questions of Coastal's mascot and the seemingly ever-changing alcohol policy; when it can be served and where. The S.G.A. also sponsors a number of activities on campus. They are in charge of the Freshman Mixer every September, the Service and School Spirit Award, and the reception after the Honors Convocation awards. Last semester they started what they hope will become a tradition, serving coffee and donuts for students in the Student Center during examinations. Certainly S.G.A. is a direct line from the students to the faculty and administration.

Up and Coming

After a period of dormancy, soccer has once again returned to Coastal Carolina's athletic program. With an overall record of 14-7, the new soccer team astounded Coastal fans with its success. Much credit can be attributed to the leadership of coach Paul Banta, who demanded the very best performance from each of his players. Also, Coach Banta recruited players from as far away as Iceland and Australia and as local as Myrtle Beach. The combined efforts of all team members led to the Big South Tournament in West Virginia, where they finished with a record of 1-1. Overall, Coastal's soccer team ranked third in the Big South Conference and fourth in District IV.

Goalie Patrick Bourgeacq blocks score attempt by an opposing soccer team.

Lady Spikers

With an overall record of 13-6 this year, the Coastal Carolina Women's Volleyball team proved that hard work and determination can make a successful season. Under the watchful guidance of Coach Gayle Spencer, the team excelled in all aspects of the game. Returning players, Holly Holland, Melissa Campbell, and Rita Kostal, provided the element of experience necessary to win, while top recruits added both strength and vitality to the promising young team. After such an impressive season, Coastal Carolina fans will certainly have much to look forward to in the 1985 season.

Signs of Success

Coastal's men are shaping into a fine basketball team under the leadership of Coach Russ Bergman. Many players have been recruited this year from all along the East Coast and around the nation. William Calvin, Scott Kiele and Gregory Moody are three such people who have worked hard at improving Coastal's team this year.

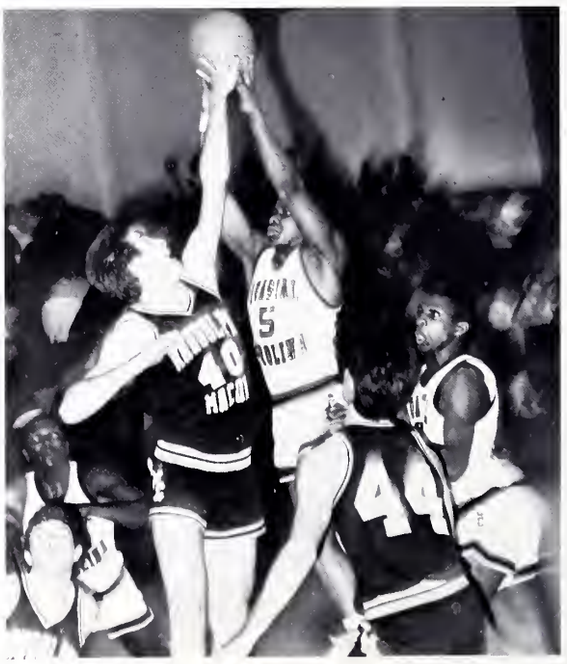

There have been disappointments as well as triumphs, but overall the team has been growing in unity, pride, and ability.

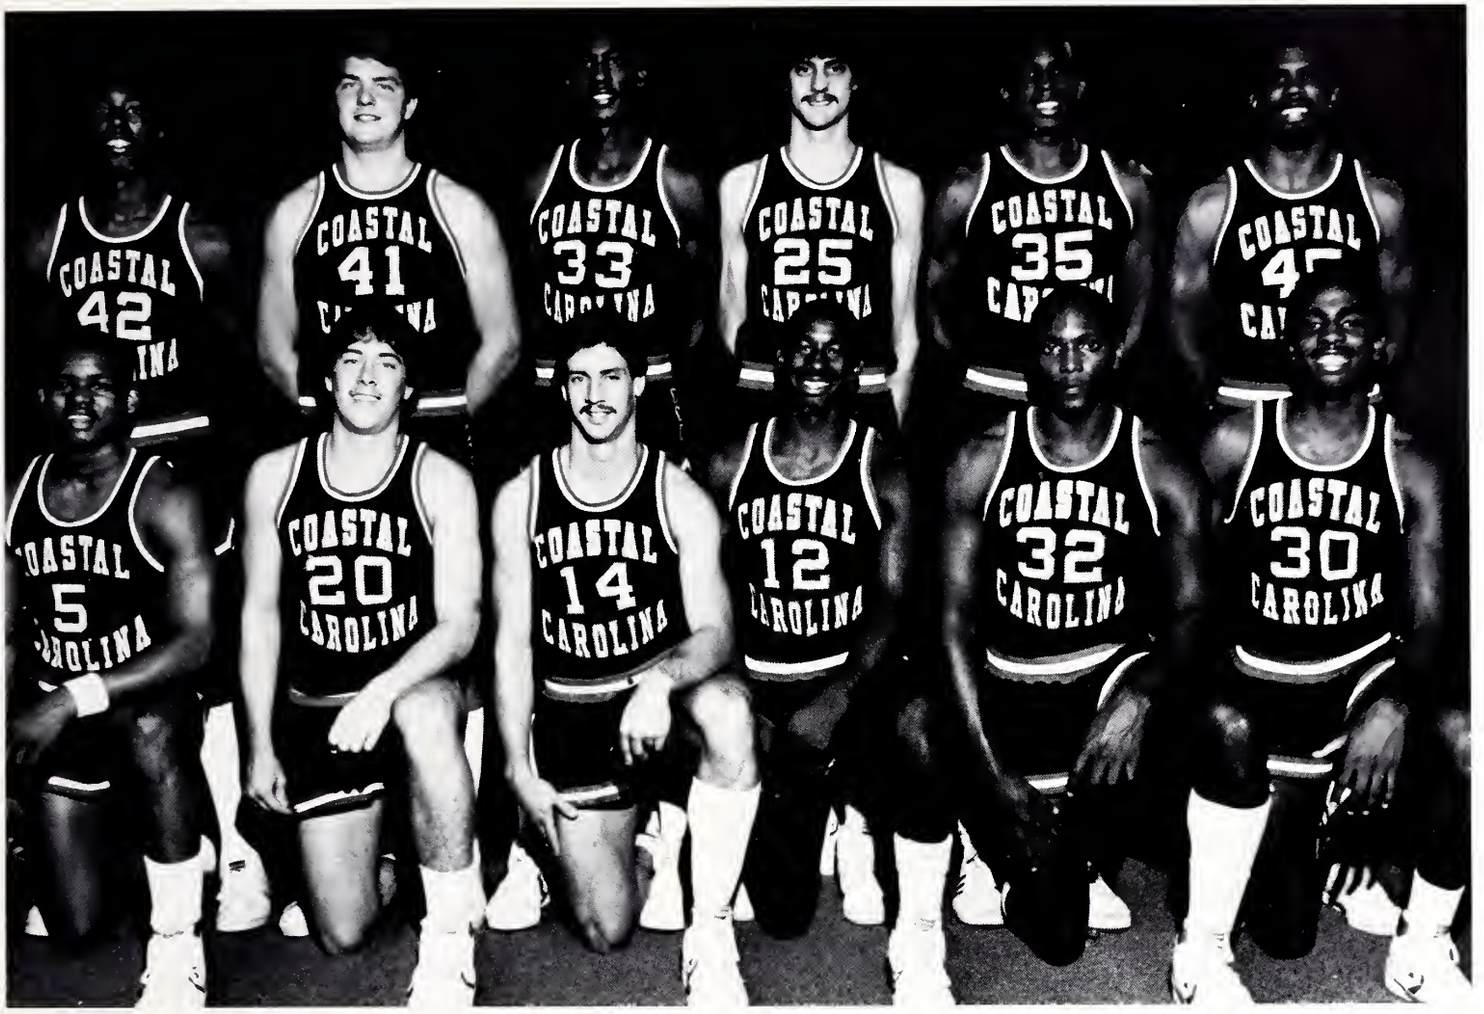

After a successful offensive drive, Greg Moody stretches to score.

Douglas Bell successfully blocks a pass attempt by this Randolf Macon player.

At the start of the game, Mike Smith reaches for control.

The Chant's top scorer was Greg Moody, who averaged 13.1 points per game. William Calvin, Sam Cole, and Bryan Black each scored over 11 points per game, with Calvin boasting a 6.5 rebounds per game record.

Striving for a Goal

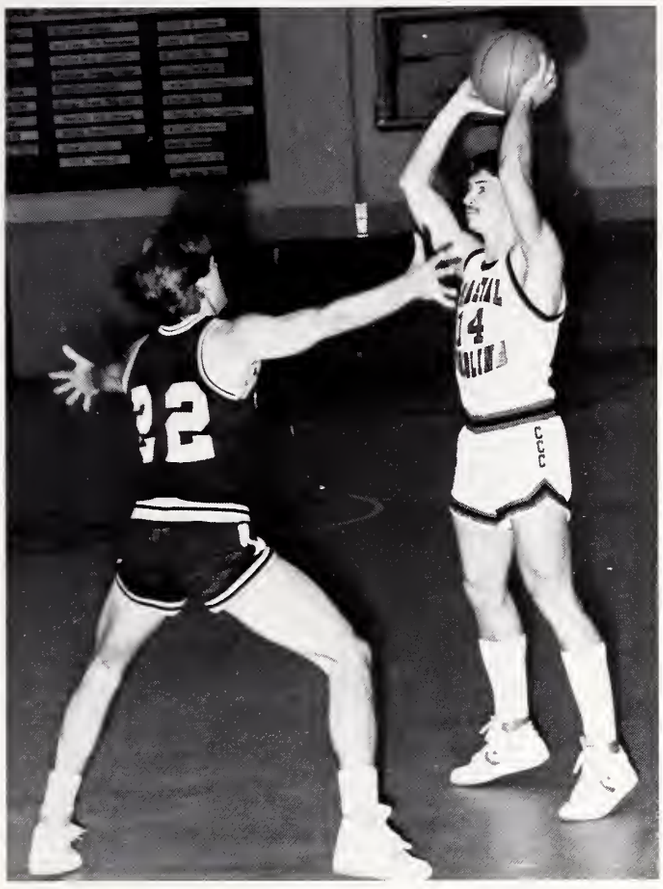

Along with Coach Bergman, the Chants carefully watch their teammates.

During a contest with Randolf Macon, Greg Moody perfects his lay-up for two points.

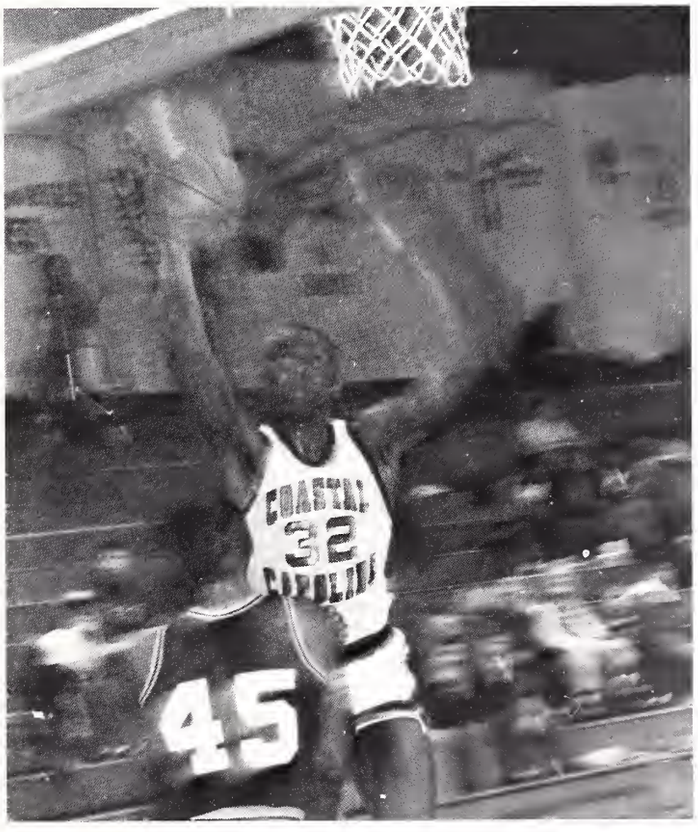

Jeff Norman skies above all defenders to complete this shot.

Trying to beat the defensive press, Brian Black searches for an opening.

Lady Chants on the Move

Coach Steve Tayolor studies the game, while Assistant Coach, Mike Hopkins gives Francine Jordan a few pointers on defense.

Connie Horner puts up a shot that gives her a chance for a three-point play.

After an unusually frustrating season last year the Lady Chants rebounded and amazed Coastal Carolina basketball fans! With only two returning players, Janice DeWitt and Lisa Barnhill, the team utilized both time and hard work to create what has turned out to be Coastal's best success story yet.

Under the leadership of Coach Steve Taylor and Assistant Coach Mike Hopkins, the Lady Chants have proved that perserverence and practice pay off!

With the greatest of ease, DeWitt puts up another of her patented jump shots.

Horner, avoiding the defensive player, looks across the court for an open teammate.

Love?

With a completely new "Top 6," the Men's Tennis team had a rough year. 1985 was a season for rebuilding, a year for pulling together and strengthening. The schedule was more than tough with opponents like Lander, Furman, and Clemson. The newness may have hurt Coastal this year, but the experience was important. Everyone expects 1986 to be a great year for Chanticleer Tennis.

Strike Three — You're Out!

Even though USC-Coastal's women's softball team has been together for only a short time, they had an outstanding season. The highlight of the year came when they recorded the first win a Coastal softball team has ever had against Francis Marion College. Although they ended with a record of 17 and 18, the softball team has next season to look forward to as their potential and experience increases.

New Addition

When Coastal Carolina decides to do something, they do it in a big way — and the new addition to the Williams-Brice building is certainly no exception. The new part of the building includes a very impressive Olympic size swimming pool, raquetball courts, an enlarged weight room, sauna, and much more. The new facilities will enable Coastal to compete in new collegiate sports such as swimming. Hopefully, the building will be complete in fall 85.

Former N.Y. Yankee to Coach at Coastal

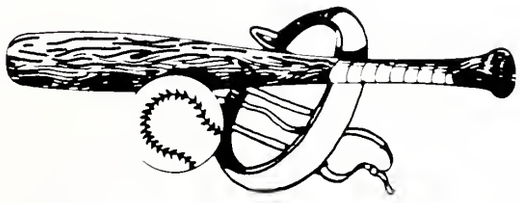

...h Bobby Richardson

At age 19, Richardson began his career.

While playing with the New York Yankees, Bobby Richardson was selected seven times as an American League All-Star and was a winner of the Golden Glove Award on five separate occasions. Richardson was MVP of the 1960 World Series and set two records that still stand today! Most hits and most runs batted in for a World Series. After retiring from professional baseball, Bobby Richardson began coaching at USC, where he led his team to finish second in the College World Series of 1975.

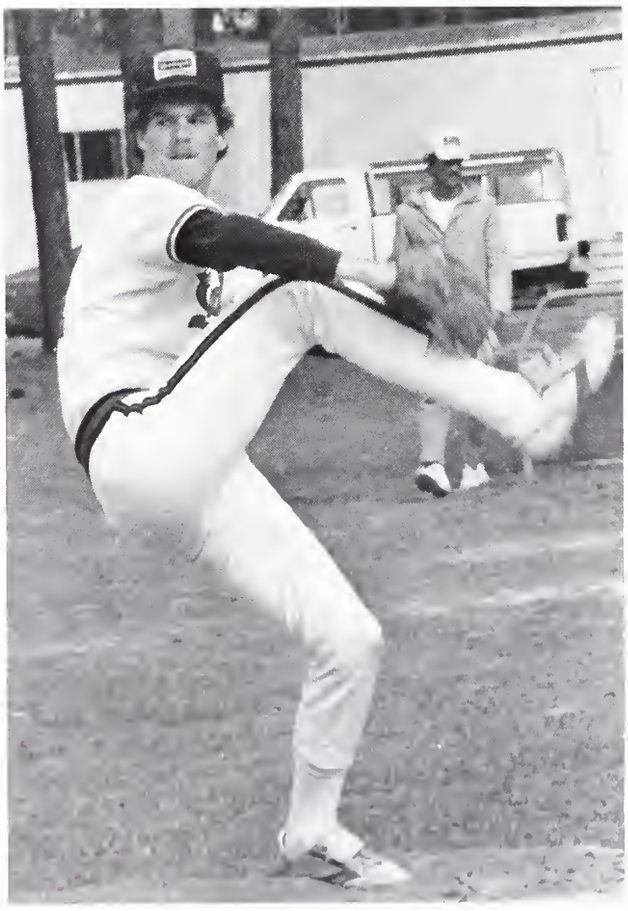

Active in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Richardson is now the president of the Baseball Chapel. A native of Sumter, South Carolina, he and his wife, Betsy presently reside in Quail Creek, Conway, S.C.

The name Coastal Carolina stands proudly over our baseball field.

The Sultans of Swing

Taking careful aim, Robert Conrad stretches, ready to fire.

Assistant Coach Jess Donnelly watches over his team from the side.

The 1983-84 season proved to be extremely successful for the Chanticleer baseball team. With an overall record of 39 wins and 16 losses, the Chanticleers astounded their fans who crowded the bleachers. The team finished off their season by winning 1st place in the NAIA District 6 Tournament. They next captured 1st place in the Area 7 Tournament in Bluefield, West Virginia. From there, the Chanticleers went to Lewiston, Idaho where they came in 4th in the nation.

During pre-game warm-ups this Chanticleer practices his long throw.

Getting ready for a game is an important part of the winning process for our Chanticleers.

While warming up his arms, Rick Murray fires the ball.

A Winning Tradition

Coastal's 1985 team was ranked in a tie with USC-Aiken in the pre-season Poll of Coaches in District 6, and Coach Bobby Richardson promises an exciting team that will run well and play good defense. The real key to a successful season, though, will be pitching. Assistant Coach Jess Dannelly, who works with the pitchers feels that we have the offense to produce more than 5 runs per game, and if our pitchers can play defensively, the season will be a successful one!

Before their exciting matchup with Francis Marion, the Chanticleers carefully concentrate on their performance.

Running

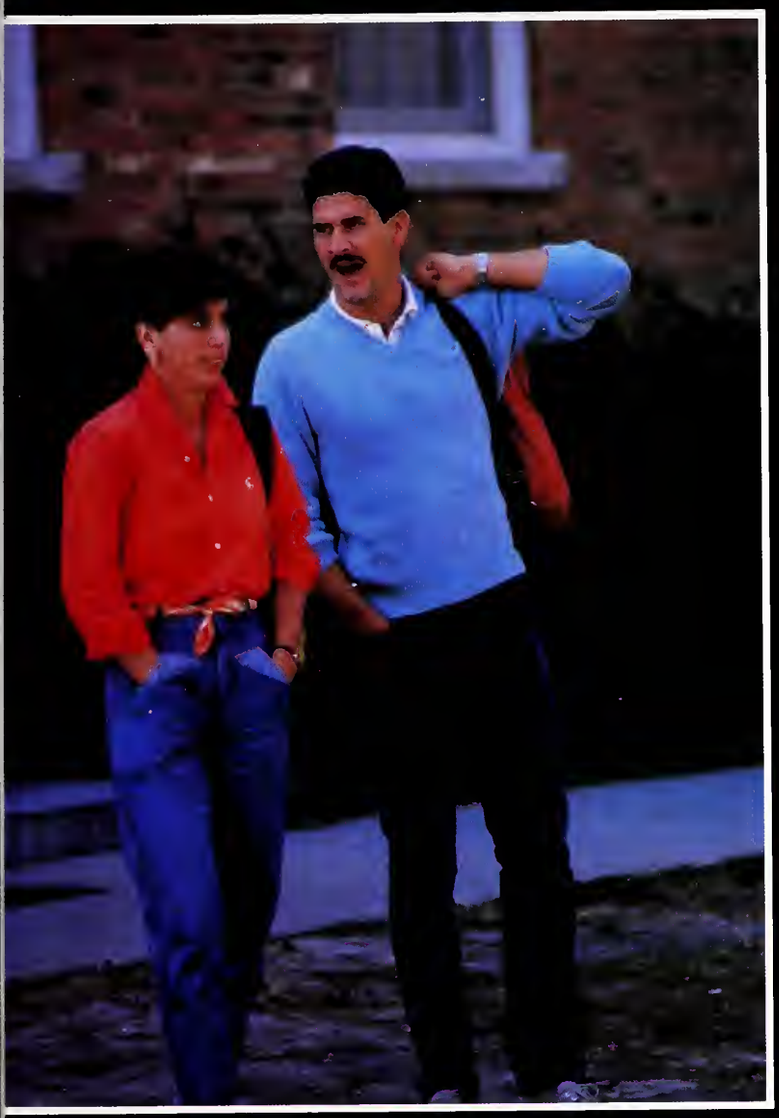

Coastal's first cross-country team was introduced this year. Under the guidance of Coach Ed Cerny, the team participated in four events; the Winthrop Invitational, the FMC Invitational, the Citadel Invitational, and the Big South Invitational at Baptist College in Charleston. Although they did not win any of these events, they met their goal: to start and finish every race. The cross-country runners were Gregg High, Dwayne Altman, Rodney Cannon and Richard Hagedorn.

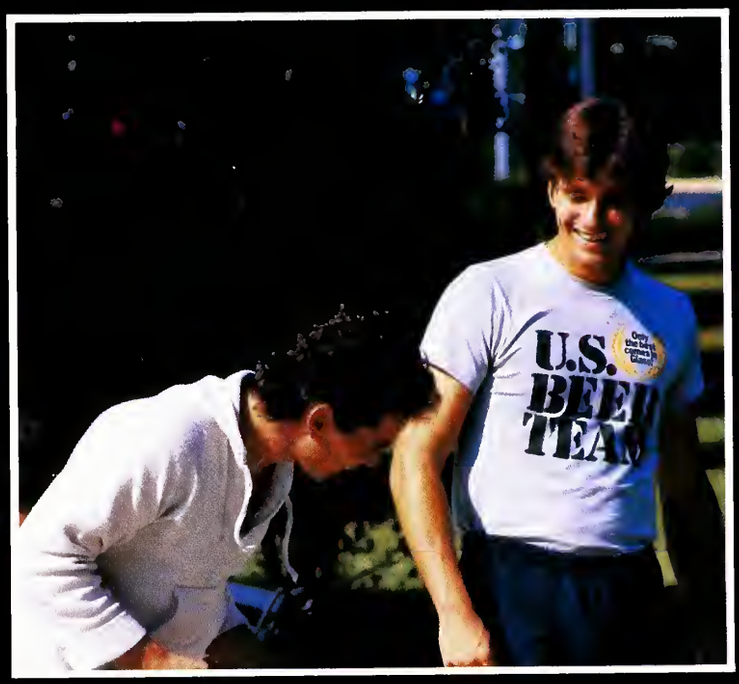

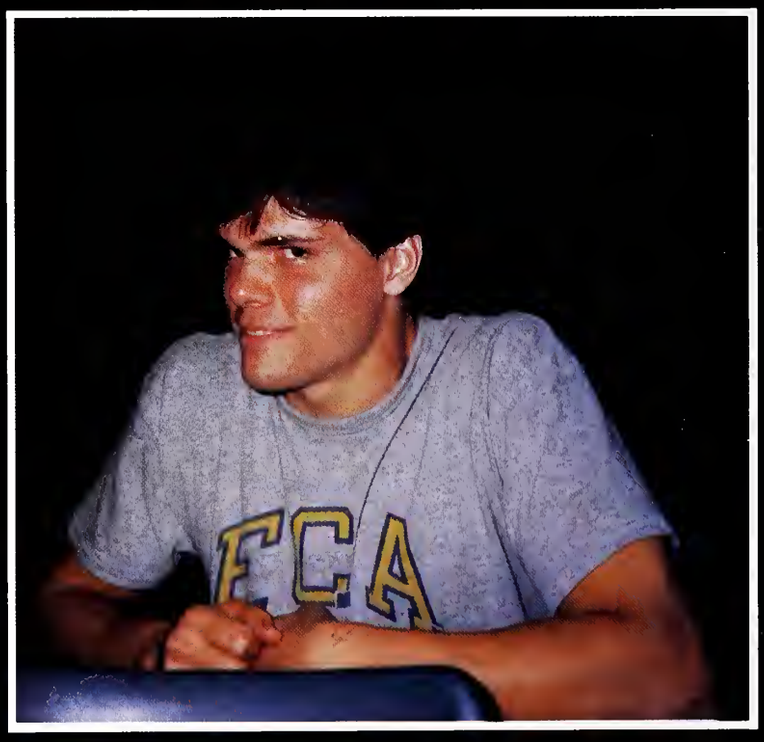

Coatal's cross-country team often runs between 5 and 10 miles per day.

Chancellor
in Action!

Now in his second year at USC — Coastal Carolina College, Dr. Fred W. Hicks seems to have adjusted to his new position as Chancellor exceedingly well. Dr. Hicks succeeded Dr. Edward M. Singleton on July 1, 1983. Since that time he has set many goals for himself and Coastal Carolina that include increased community involvement, expanded computer courses, and off-campus housing for students. In addition, on-campus dormitories are being planned. These programs will hopefully improve the educational standards at Coastal.

Dr. Hicks, a native of Detroit, Michigan, holds a Ph.D. in Higher Education Administration, an M.A. in History, and an A.B. in History from the University of Michigan. He also holds an M.S. in Criminal Justice and an L.H.D. from Rollins College. Prior to assuming the Presidency of Wesleyan College, Dr. Hicks was Executive Vice-President of Rollins College in Winter Park, Florida, where he also served for a period as acting president. In 1964 he came to Rollins College as Director of Student Affairs and as a professor of History.

In the early 1960's, he served as Director of Financial Aid at the University of Michigan and as Assistant to the Vice-President for Public Relations and Development at the University of Michigan. Dr. Hicks also served on the Board of Directors of the American Red Cross of Macon; on the Board of Trustees of the Macon Historic Preservation Heritage Foundation, and as Director of the Sun First National Bank of Winter Park. Also added to his credentials are the position of Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Winter Park Public Library; Chairman of the Civil Service Board of Winter Park and member of the Board of Trustees of the Winter Park Memorial Hospital.

When my folks sent me to college, they never dreamed I'd come home a Financial Wizard.

I didn't have to take a course or crack a book, either. All I did was become a C&S customer.

Now I can use C&S's Wizard machines on campus and around town to make deposits and withdrawals from my checking and savings accounts, make transfers, even make payments on a loan—24 hours a day. And t[illegible] are some 125 C&S offices and over 100 Wizard machine locations around the state, so I can be a Financial Wizard almost anywhere in South Carolina.

So folks, even though I'm not on the Dean's List yet, I'm already getting straight A's in banking at C&S. And that's the C&S way.

941 — HELP WANTED

WE WANT YOU!

The 1985-86 Atheneum needs your help! All persons interested in preserving a Coastal tradition should report to Melissa Blakley at the Atheneum office (SC-203C), or call 347-3161 or 448-1481 (ext. 2332). One English credit may be received for participation. We need typists, ad salespersons, layout artists, photographers, copy writers, or people willing to learn these talents.

ATHENEUM

Can We Talk?

Dr. Fred Hicks and certain faculty members are asked various administrative questions on the D'Antoni show.

With the style of a T.V. expert, Dr. Hicks provides viewers with a better understanding of C.C.C.

In response to a national survey, this student merely inquires why she likes Coke.

The Choir's H.M.S. Pinafore crew all gather round to select an egg.

Coach Russ Bergman calmly reminds his team of the gravity of the final minutes of the basketball game.

The bright sunshine of spring forces a confession from these Sig Ep members.

Caught in the Act

As aerobics sweep the country, C.C.C. keeps right in stride with its own aerobics class for all interested students.

After taking careful aim, the Chanticleer pitcher fires one of his many perfect strikes.

The Phys-Ed department's folk dance class has become one of the most popular elective classes for non-major students.

Service practice requries a great deal of patience of each player.

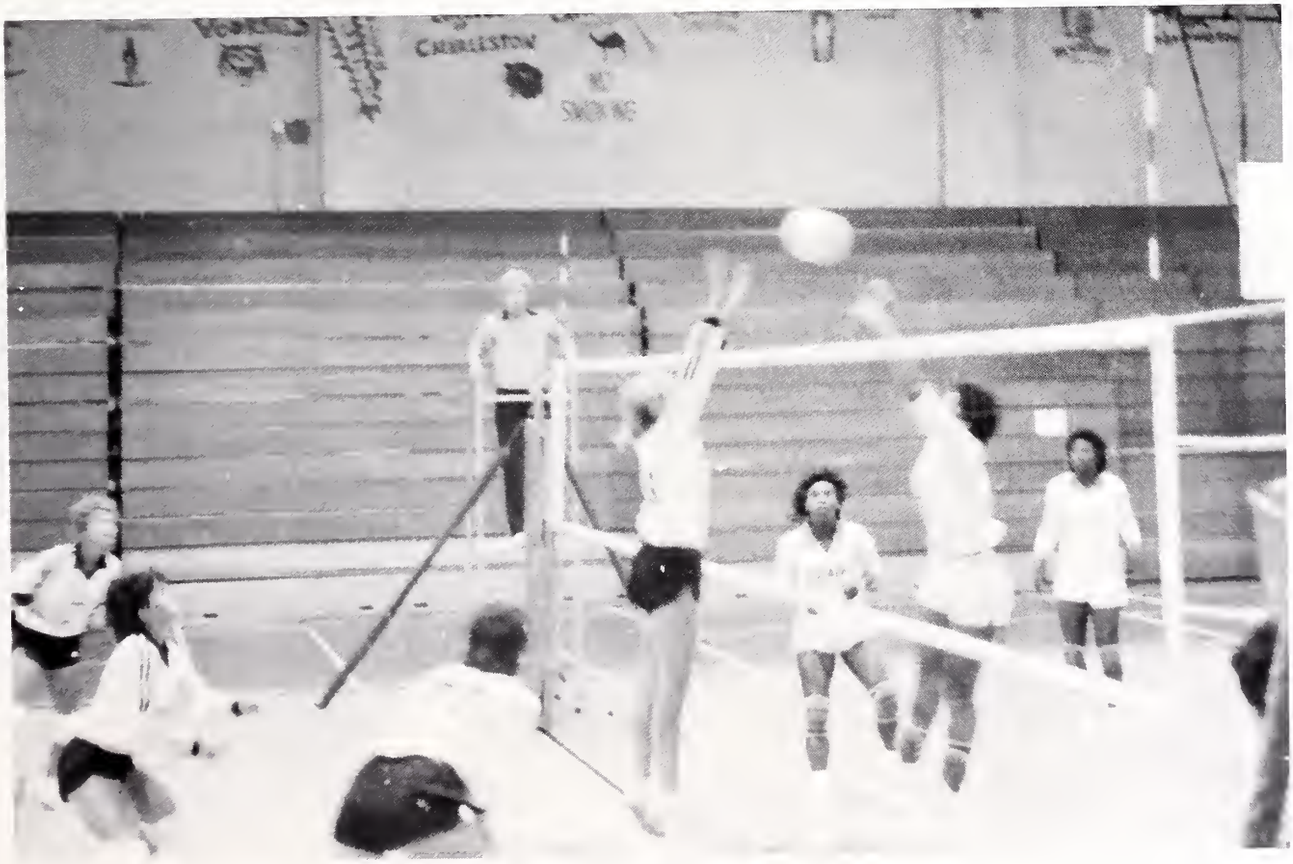

Guarding the soccer goal is sometimes a bit painful as is obvious here.

The C.C.C. cheerleaders show their absolute delight over a recent goal.

The Lady Netters guard the front line carefully in this match with State.

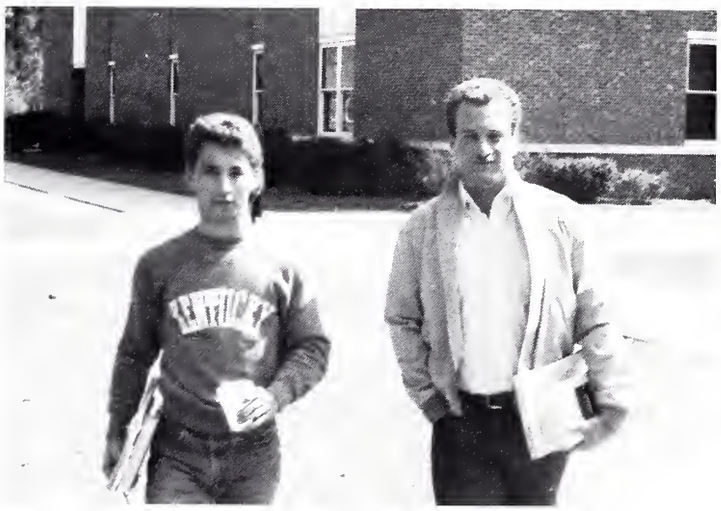

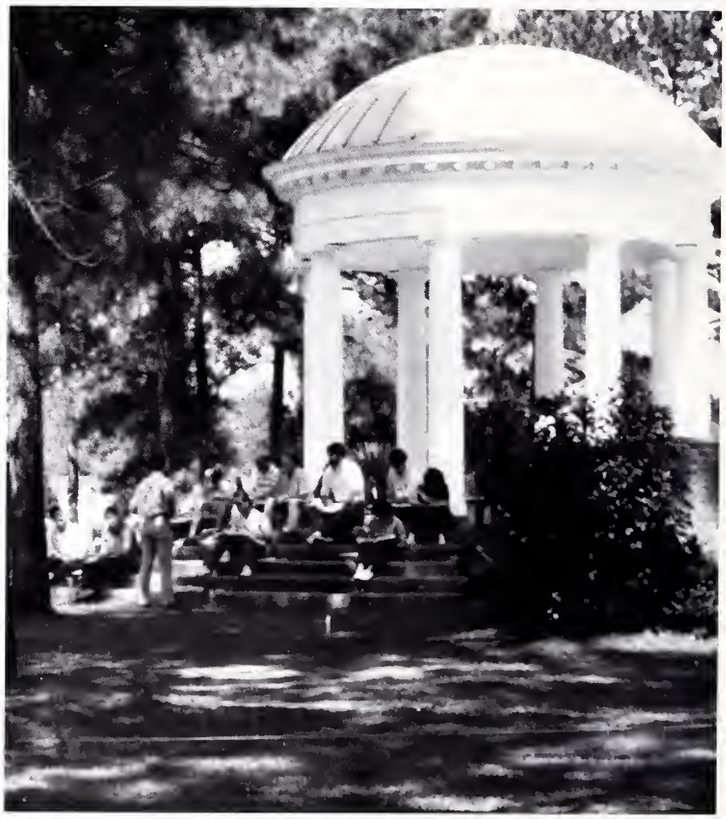

All in a days work

As a special treat the Fellowship of Christian Athletes learn to handle a basketball.

Going to classes is just a routine event for some of Coastal's students.

Classes often meet under the Atheneum hoping to partake of its wisdom.

Professors Collin and Peterson relax and talk about their classes.

Mike Mongeon presents the raffle winner with this prize — a gold coin.

Scott Hill, Sharon Williams, and Donna Flanagan wait patiently for Homecoming festivities to begin.

The end of the semester brings with it a rush of final term papers and last minute studying.

Professor Power

Prof. Ed Cerny enjoys a good bike ride to his morning classes.

Prof. Paul Peterson lectures his political philosophy classes on "the most pleasurable life."

Certainly one of the most unique attributes of Coastal is its high caliber of faculty. Of all the faculty on campus 80 hold their Ph.D.'s, 49 hold their M.A.'s and 4 have their B.A.'s. One of the most noticeable characteristics of the C.C.C. faculty is obvious concern for their students, both academically and personally. Each one of them will always find time to listen to whatever problems their students may have. Without a doubt, this attention is greatly appreciated by each student.

Bookstore Security is a major concern for Jimmy Soles and Phillip Dekunzzi.

With the finess of a pro Dr. Gerald Groves perfects his forehand.

In a flash, David Majewski rushes forward for a volley.

Guarding Art exhibits is tiring work for the security guards.

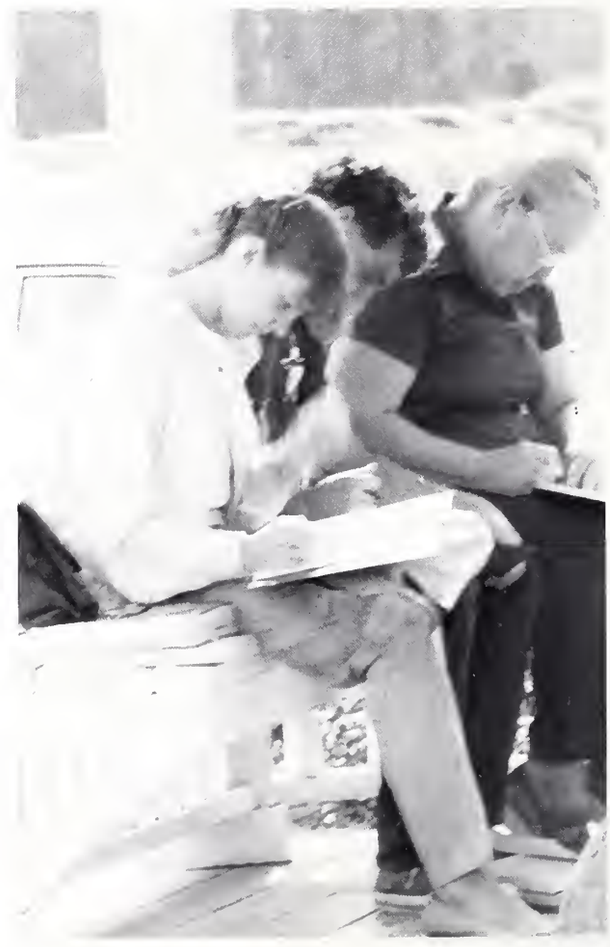

Dr. Trout proves once again that professors can be athletic too.

On the Serious Side

Making certain that necessary classes are taken is a serious subject for each student.

Taking precise notes during class is most helpful for studying.

Recruiting blood donors was not an easy task for members of Alpha Phi Omega.

Each student volunteer is checked at various nurse's stations.

C.C.C. students had the opportunity to view Arthur Miller's "All My Sons" an intense drama.

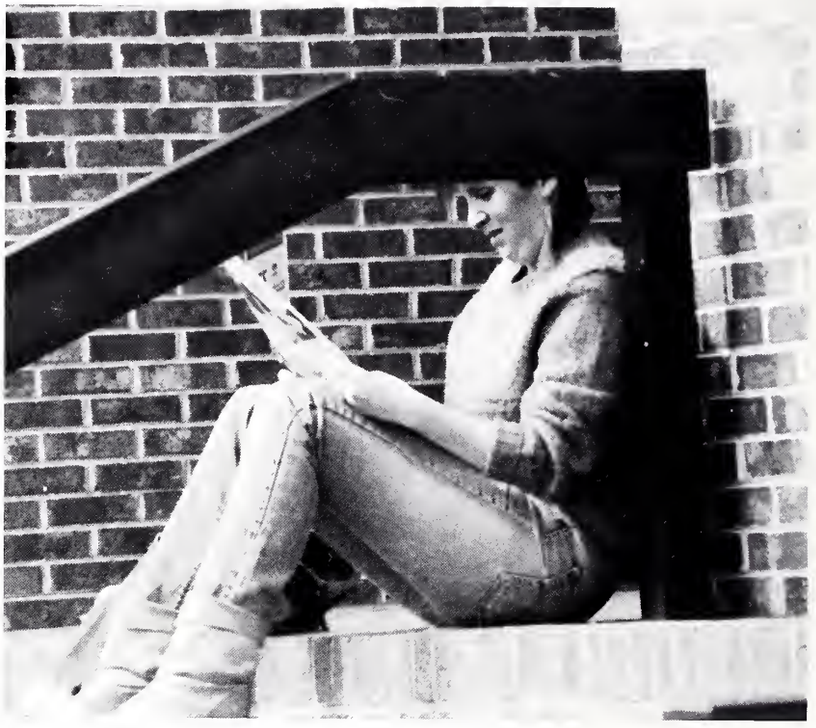

The C.C.C. banner waves proudly by the E. M. Singleton Administration Building.

On the Spot

Scott Hill is caught on target with a popsicle in hand.

Anita Stratton takes a moment to read the latest issue of the Chanticleer.

Full of confidence, Mary Vickman campaigns for C.U. coordinator.

This Red Cross nurse checks the needle for proper flow.

A quick hello and good-bye is all these two students have time for.

After classes, Whitney Shaindlin takes a moment to reflect on the day.

Donna Flanagan waits impatiently for the Campus Union campaign results.

The Facts of Life

Paul Gumam imparts to Donna Flanagan a little campaign strategy.

These philosophy students hope to gain some wisdom about life in class.

Taking a break between classes gives these students time to talk.

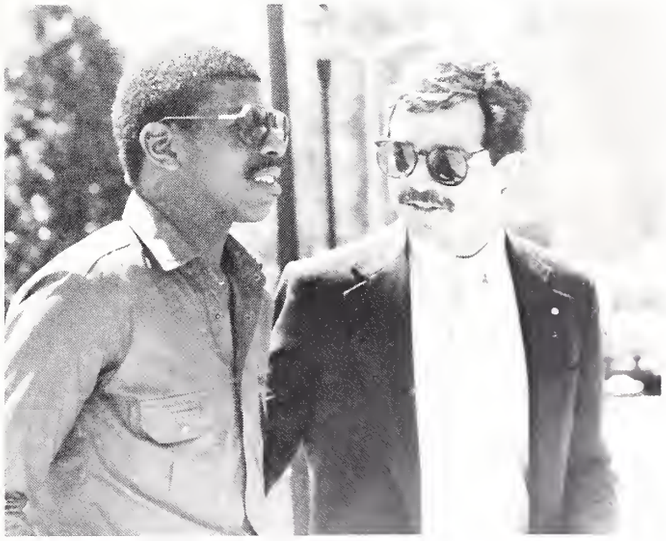

These two students compare notes to see who is most accurate.

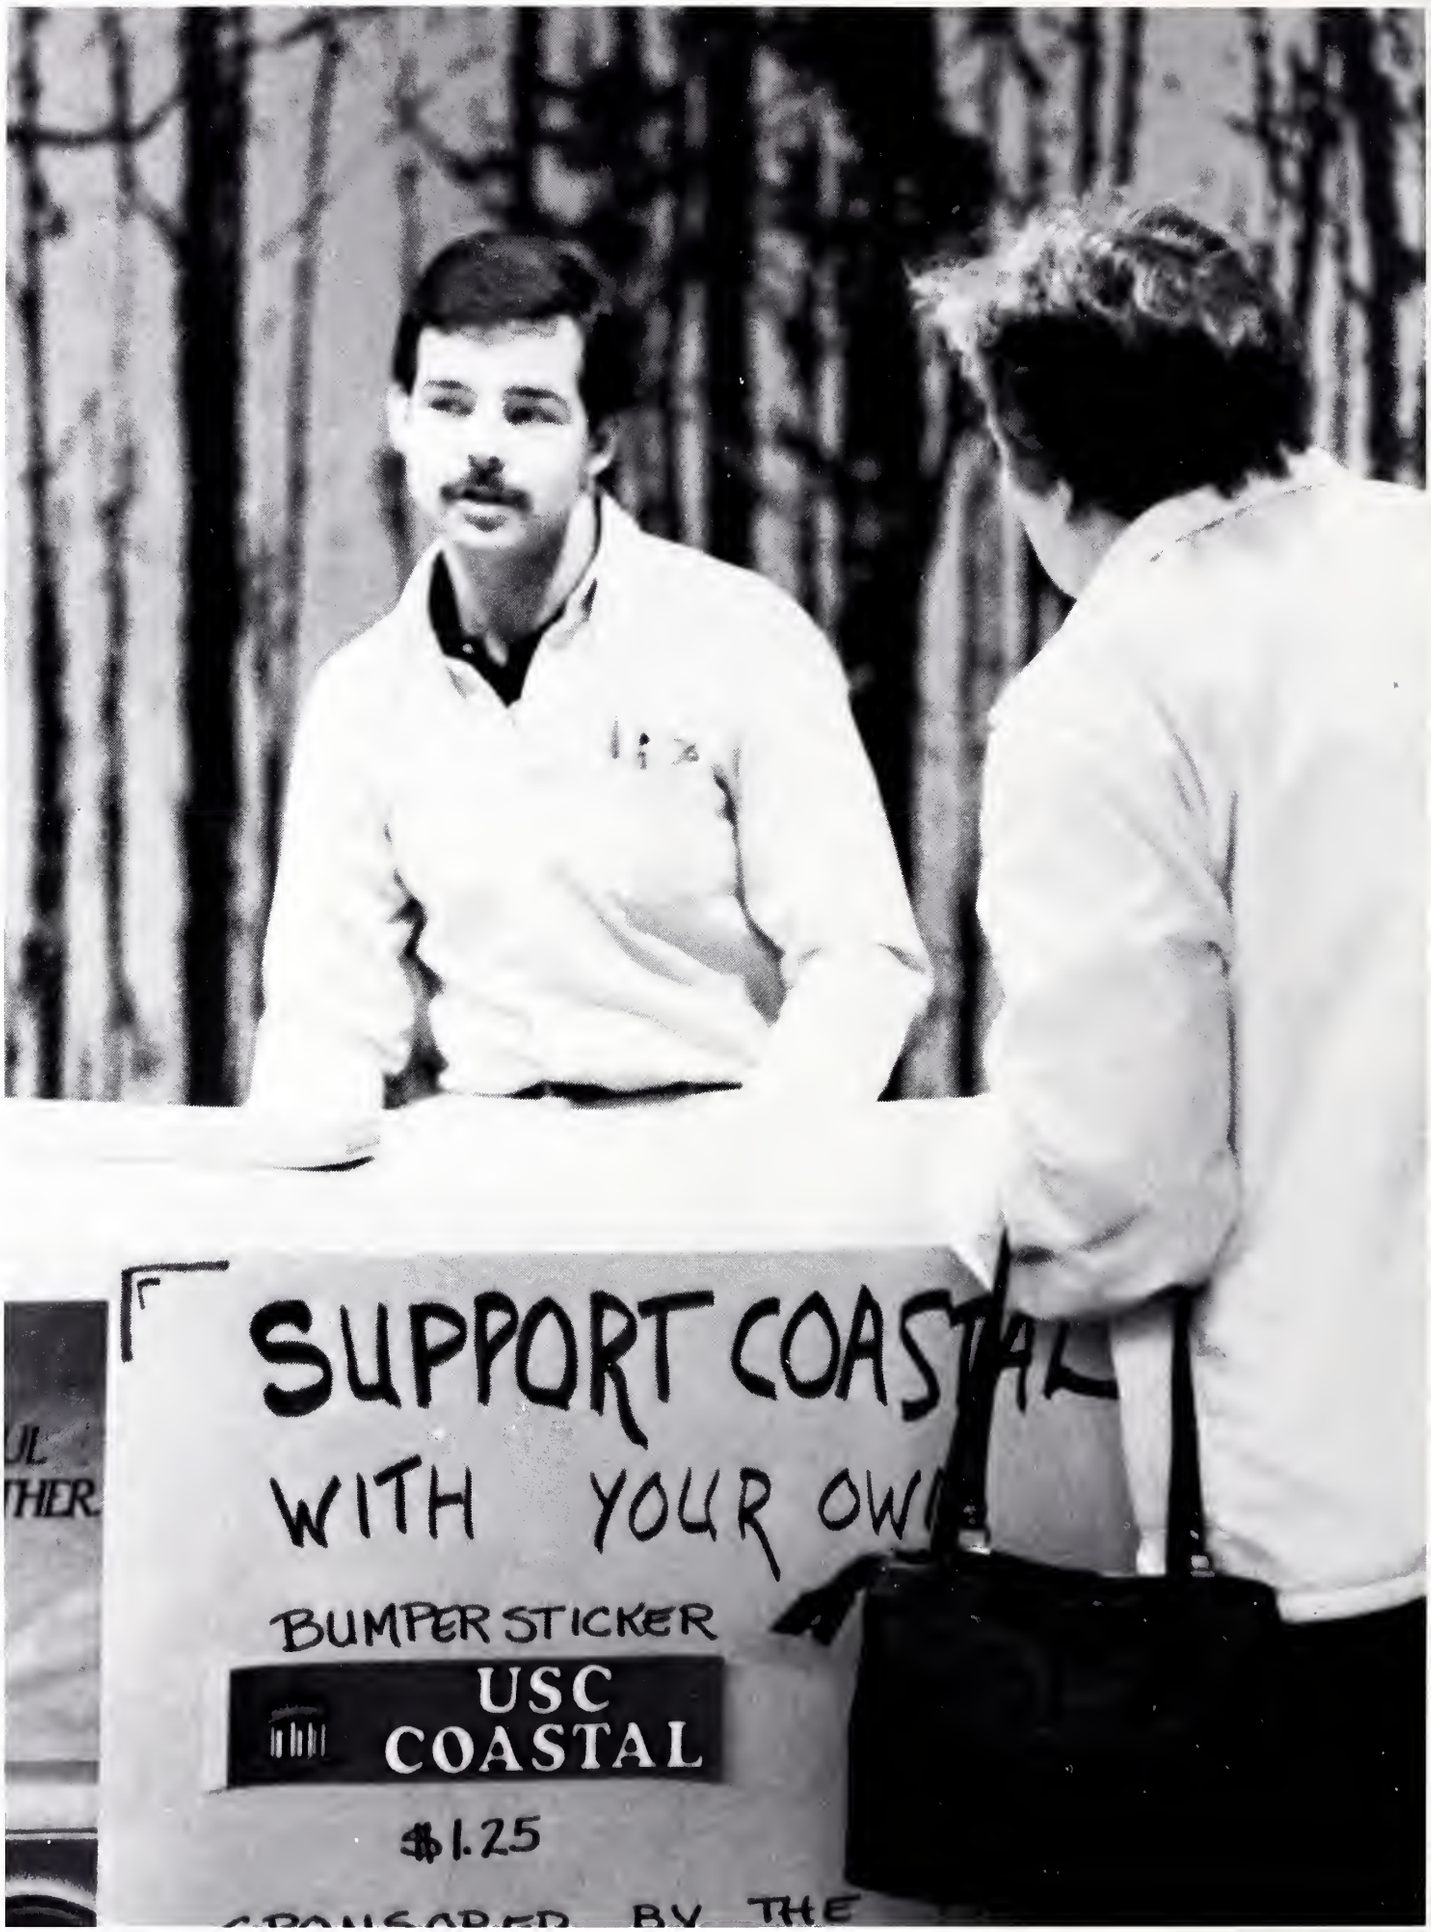

Ensemble practice with Carolyn Cox can be quite rigorous.

Biology students learn about life by studying nature and its inhabitants — primarily bugs.

William Gerald and Michael Lehouck both agree that life as a public official is tough.

The Center of Attention

The cafeteria also provides a great place to meet friends, eat lunch, and gossip all at once.

The Student Center provides a central location for S.G.A. elections.

In the Nick of Time

Students rush from building to building every hour.

These two, however, do not seem to be in a very big hurry.

Finding a nearby parking space is often a problem as these three discover.

The walk between classes gives everyone a chance to see friends along the way.

These students take advantage of the ten minute break to relax outside.

Catching a quick snack between classes is only possible if you are a fast drinker.

The Student Center steps seem to be the busiest in-between classes.

No More Beer?

As the S.C. legislature raised the legal drinking age for beer and wine to 20, questions were raised as to how the new law would affect student functions. The Panel of Presidents and S.G.A. both met to determine what Coastal's new alcohol policy would be. Basically, nothing changed. Coastal wil abide by all state and federal laws concerning alcohol. Therefore no one under 20 will be allowed to consume alcohol at any school function. For now at least the matter seems settled. However, as the drinking age goes up to 21, questions will certainly arise as to whether or not Coastal should allow alcohol at all.

Wrist bands are used to identify students who are old enough to consume alcohol.

Many officials feel that the new law will encourage underage students to stay away from functions serving alcohol.

This student seems to be indifferent about being unable to consume alcohol.

The new alcohol policy requires that functions serving alcohol must provide food for at least 75% of those attending.

Just for the Fun of It

With all the activities that the various clubs and organizations plan for Coastal students, it seems amazing that they find time to attend classes. In addition to the competitive athletic programs, students can participate in intermural sports. Joining one of the many clubs is another way to meet people and have a good time.

Renee Kotsovos and Scott Hill share a good laugh at a recent mini-concert.

These two students take time to just relax and enjoy the scenery.

Playing catch between classes seems to have become a favorite of these Sig Eps.

As Campus Union checks Id's, students anxiously await the start of the homecoming dance.

"The Rare" entertains guests at a Campus Union mini-concert.

Sunning in the courtyard provides excellent relaxation.

The Business Club takes time for fun on wheels.

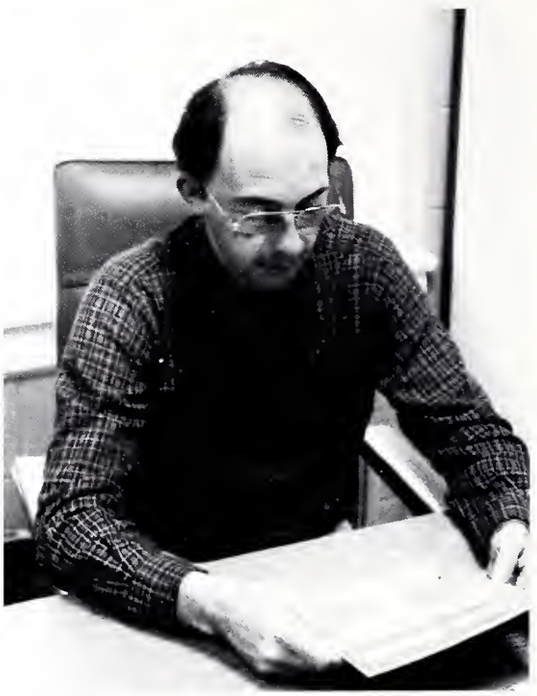

Varieties of Study

Taking notes and listening to lectures incorporates the majority of classtime.

Performing experiments takes up much time of chemistry students.

Marine Biology, a popular major at Coastal, is taught by Dr. Richard Dame.

Fortunately for students, Coastal Carolina provides an extensive curriculum and degree program, ranging from Early Childhood Education, to Business, to Marine Biology. Such a selection has enabled students to finish their four year degrees here rather than transferring to the Columbia campus. Hopefully, the near future will find the college with an even better schedule of courses to offer prospective students.

With the arrival of spring, many classes moved outdoors.

The Student Center is often a study-around for last minute cramming.

Beginner Tennis is just one of the many phys-ed classes.

Philosophy classes have produced many would-be philosophers on campus.

"Save the Atheneum"

As funds were desperately needed for the yearbook budget, S.G.A. decided to sponsor a car wash on Sat. March 2nd in both Conway and Surfside. The response was encouraging as students from various clubs and organizations volunteered their services. The car wash committee made posters and distributed flyers around campus to round up business. Finally the big day arrived. Through the help of local radio stations, word soon spread. A total of $425.00 was raised.

Teamwork glowed at the Surfside car cash location.

Kevin, Scott, and Lloyd rush to complete the job.

Renee Kotosovos diligently scrubs tires.

Jay Kirby and Rice Shapinsky tackle the vacuum detail.

Students in Action

The major problem of the day for these four is where to eat lunch.

Confusion often occurs in choosing the best route to class.

Moments before class, this student takes time to relax.

Feature Attractions

Coastal Carolina College

Throughout the 1984-85 school year, Coastal was honored to present several well-known actors, actresses and artists. Many of these guests were sponsored by the Kimbal Distinguished Lecture Series. Thanks to this program, CCC students and the surrounding communities are given the chance to participate in culturally enriching programs.

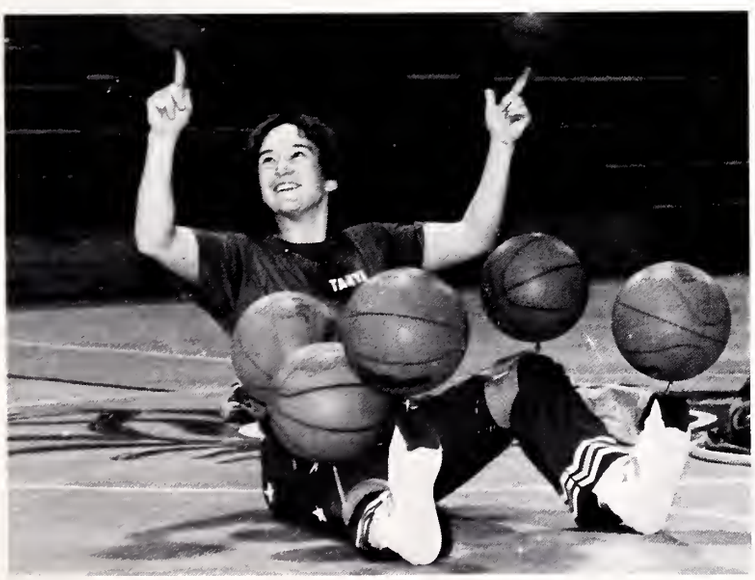

In March CCC students were able to view Arthur Miller's "All My Sons."

"Once Upon A Mattress" gave CCC students a chance to perform, as well as be entertained.

Sid Ceasar captured everyone's attention with his amusing anecdotes.

F.C.A. sponsored Tanya Crevier, an amazing ballhandler.

Signs of the Season

It's always obvious that spring has arrived at Coastal Carolina. All around campus, lawns are covered with bare-backed bodies, and bare legs that have been in hibernation all winter. Music can be heard blasting from cassettes everywhere, as if lauding the coming of spring. Even the birds notice the change as they glide through the trees. This magical time seems to infect everyone as they impatiently await summer vacation. Coastal is finally coming alive with the change of the season.

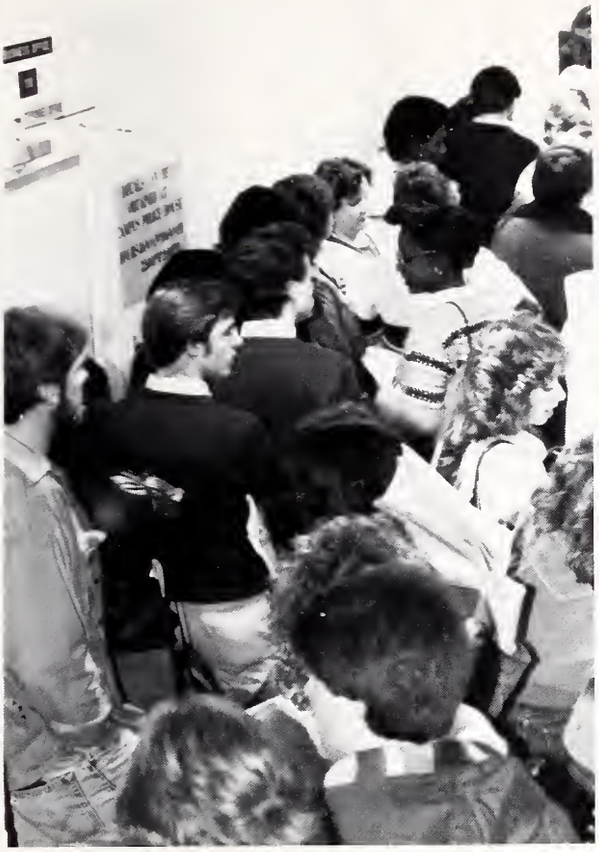

On her lunch break, Jan Howard takes advantage of the warm weather.

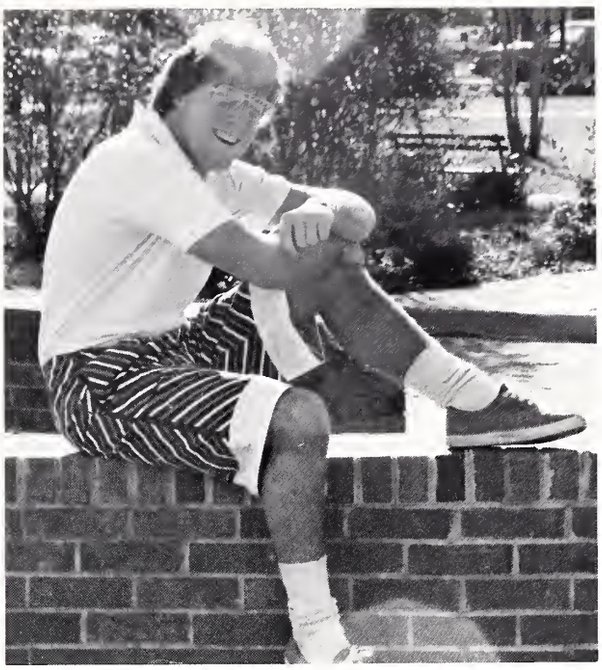

Frequent and often unannounced spring showers keep students ready at all times.

Even the birds seem to be enjoyng the warm spring sun.

Long lines are certainly a sign of spring registration.

Sporting new "baggies" Tom Patrick is ready for summer.

Warm sunshine always attracts those seeking a dark tan.

Sunglasses and loose shirts appear like magic.

Students love to gather outdoors to enjoy the season.

A Few of Our Favorite Things

Much to our amazement, college can actually be fun at times. Coastal Carolina, for many of us, is a great place to play, as well as learn. So often, the best things happen when we least expect it and so often this happens at Coastal. It seems that there is always something going on around campus and it is usually easy to find someone to share a laugh with.

Chanty rides proudly in the Homecoming Parade.

The Business Club's Student Faculty Mixer at Good Times was a big success.

Above all else, the emblem C.C.C. is certainly a campus-wide favorite with all at Coastal.

In the American way, baseball is still an all time favorite.

And Then There Was Friendship

Every imaginable variety of life has come together here at Coastal. Some students traveled for thousands of miles by all means of transportation, while others who grew up nearby simply walked. Regardless of the miles, the friendships that have been formed because paths have crossed will always be close in heart. Coastal has provided students and faculty with a nurturing ground for new relationships.

Sig Eps, a tight circle of "brothers," emphasize the importance of fellowship.

A warm hug is always appreciated from friends.

Lunch break is always a good time for Carol Abner and Ann Calhoun to talk.

Kelly Williams takes advantage of her friends for ideas for S.G.A.

Some good buddies are always ready with amusing jokes.

The uniqueness of this special college can best be seen in the people who are a part of it. While life will go on and our separate roads will lengthen, the friendships that have been made at this educational turning point will forever be with everyone — always.

Against the Wind

The 1984-85 academic year proved to be a year of great struggle for the Atheneum. Faced at the onset with an unstable tradition, staff members set out to improve the image and reputation of the yearbook. Yet it was not an easy task.

After many planning and deadline problems combined with low book sales, it seemed that all might be lost. It was at this point that the issue was raised that perhaps the students and faculty did not really want a yearbook.

The answer came in the first few weeks of March. During a successful campaign by Student Government Association to "Save the Yearbook," money was raised through book sales, ad sales, donations, and even a car wash. The time, effort, and money that was donated by everyone was greatly appreciated.

After such an overwhelming response, particularly by student leaders, the yearbook staff was able to continue.

Certainly this project began "Against The Wind." Thankfully failure did not occur. The hard work and dedication of each staff member has resulted in a book in which each and every student and faculty member can be proud of. I would like to thank each one of these individuals for their help. Also, I would like to thank each of the S.G.A. officers, especially Scott Hill, for their effort and support to ensure the publication of the 1984-85 yearbook. Special thanks goes to Greg Tyler, editor of the Chanticleer. His help in putting out a special edition of Chanticleer generated numerous book sales. And finally, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my advisor, Veronica Davis, and to Pat Singleton and Dr. Robert Squatriglia. The success of this project would have never occurred without the support, confidence and dedication of these three people. It is, therefore, with great pride and pleasure that I present this 1984-85 edition of Atheneum to the student body. My hope is to establish, with the help of students and faculty, an ongoing tradition and permanent structure of a yearbook here at Coastal Carolina.

ME AS A TREE

My roots have been planted,
since this is my home,
My branches are reaching,
for somewhere to roam;

Old leaves are beneath me,
and new ones appear,
The old leaves have guided,
the new ones will steer;

The wind brushes past me,
and carries my scent,
Letting on to the world,
My life's been well spent.
